

ABSTRACT

An apparatus for clutch braking in a multi-speed transmission comprising a prime mover, a transmission system, an output shaft and a torque converter. The transmission comprises a first stage and a second stage wherein the first stage comprises at least two 5 range clutches and the second stage comprises at least two direction clutches. The range and direction clutches are slipped, locked and/or engaged to brake the system.